The Fiji economy

Key numbers

Fiji's Real Gross Domestic Product "GDP" in 2016 is forecast to grow by 2.4% (3.5% was earlier forecast), due to damage sustained from TC Winston and Zena and the April 2016 floods and is forecast to grow by a further 3.6% by December 2017. In 2015 the Fiji economy is expected to have grown by 4.2% which is the 6th consecutive year of economic expansion.

Global growth is forecast by the International Monetary Fund to grow at 3.2% in 2016 and 3.5% in 2017.

Greater uncertainties related to increasing financial turbulence, falling asset and low commodity prices compared to historical levels have affected global growth forecasts.

Merchandise exports

Total exports are estimated to have contracted by 13.2 percent in 2015, led by lower re-exports, while total domestic exports rose marginally. The decrease in re-exports is mainly caused by the re-export of mineral fuel due to lower crude oil prices, and other re-export commodities and fish products.

Merchandise Imports

Total imports for 2015 are estimated to have declined by 13.2 percent, led by lower imports of mineral fuel, food and machinery & transport equipment. As a percent of GDP, total imports are expected to be 46.3 percent in 2015 compared to 56.9 percent in 2014.

For 2016, total import growth is projected at 8.5 percent mainly attributed to higher demand for manufactured goods, machinery & transport equipment and food.

In terms of the direction of trade, Singapore is Fiji's largest trading import country accounting for 52% of the trade deficit (i.e. imports versus exports).

The current account deficit is expected to be 4.7% of GDP in 2016/2017 fiscal year or $468 million compared to 1.6% or $146 million in 2015/2016.

Monetary conditions continue to be centered on safeguarding foreign reserves and maintaining low inflation that will support growth and investment. At the end of March 2016 foreign reserves were around $2.06 billion sufficient to cover 5.6 months of retained imports of goods and non-factor services.

Interest rates are expected to remain low in the medium term in light of excess liquidity in the banking system despite the effects of TC Winston. The commercial banks weighted average lending rate fell from 5.9% in December 2015 to 5.88% in March 2016.

Underlying inflation decelerated to 0.8% in March 2016 from 1.5% in December 2015. This was despite the effect of TC Winston and Zena especially on the supply of agricultural items. Inflation is forecast to be around 2.0% by the 2016 year end (1.6% in 2015).

Exchange rate movements reflect that over the quarter (March 2016) the Fiji dollar strengthened against the US dollar (2.5%), and the New Zealand dollar (1.1%) but weakened against the Japanese Yen (-4.4%), Australian dollar (-2.7%) and the Euro (-1.3%).

Consumer spending was robust for the first quarter (31 March 2016). Commercial bank new lending for consumption purposes grew by 5.2% in the year to March 2016.
